3.2 Grievance Resolution Processes

The following flow chart describes the steps, within the University, a student should take to have a grievance dealt with or to appeal one or more of the decisions listed. Concerns or complaints should, initially, be addressed to the person listed first in the flow chart. However, in some cases, that may not always be possible or appropriate so the next person listed in the flow chart should be approached.

It should be noted that where all avenues for escalation or appeal listed in the following flow chart have been exhausted, without reaching what the student considers to be a satisfactory outcome, the student may then take the matter to the Office of the Queensland Ombudsman\(^1\). The Ombudsman would normally focus on issues of procedural compliance or fairness in the decision making process rather than matters concerning academic judgement.

Important Note: The Ombudsman may decline to investigate a complaint if the student making the complaint has not first attempted to resolve the problem through the University’s grievance resolution process.

The Ombudsman’s Office should be contacted for specific advice regarding particular circumstances.

3.2 (v) Notes

A. For an assessment result (including a higher degree thesis) or entry to a program not governed by the Admission Rules, the grounds for appeal should normally be related to:

- improper, irregular, or negligent conduct by a person involved;
- discrimination, prejudice, or bias against a student;
- failure to adhere to relevant published University policies and procedures;
- failure to give sufficient consideration to a matter of specific relevance to the student.

B. The category “academic standards” refers to issues such as teaching, supervision, academic programs and workloads.

C. Examples of stages of appeal in 3.2 (iii)
